Assalaamu-alaykum and Ramadhan Mubarak!

Dear brothers and sisters,

We hope this message finds you safe and well at this most sad and challenging of times. None of us could have imagined as we celebrated Eid last year how much our lives would change before this Ramadhan's arrival. But while we held one vision of the future, The Almighty held another, and here we are in a world made almost unrecognisable by the spread of a virus.

It is understandable if fear, anxiety, and despair start running high, but we must remember: Our Lord knows best, and He is The Best of Planners. Our role as believers is to trust in His Plan, to know that everything He does is underscored by His Infinite Wisdom, Compassion, and Mercy, and to ask how we can best respond.

So how do we respond to it? Simply put, we follow in the footsteps of our Prophet, peace be upon him. Because whilst this situation is unprecedented and unique, it is also nothing new. Disease and calamity have befallen mankind throughout history, and so there is much guidance we can draw upon from the Qur'an and Sunnah to light our way through such dark and difficult times.

For this reason, as well as bringing you regular features such as masjid timetables, we have devoted the information pages of Ramadhan 2020 to advice and inspiration on how to approach the coming month in light of the pandemic. We feel incredibly fortunate to still be able to bring the book to you given the present circumstances, so we hope that in its own small way Ramadhan 2020 will help you feel more informed and connected with the community.

As always, we would like to thank our partners, sponsors, and advertisers for their role in making Ramadhan 2020 possible, especially given the financial challenges at the current time. And we would like to thank you, our dear readers, for your support too, which is why we have some fantastic prizes to give away - a Smasung Smart Phone, an online voucher from Desi Dolls and a fabulous gift set from Qahwa Club. See inside for details and get your entry in today!

We pray you have a safe, healthy, and blessed Ramadhan and Eid.

POLICE & CRIME COMMISSIONER for Leicestershire

Prevention | Partnership | Protection

Message from Police and Crime Commissioner Lord Willy Bach and Deputy Commissioner Kirk Master

We would like to wish you a peaceful Ramadan and joyous Eid Mubarak.

Undoubtedly, this holy month will be celebrated differently this year as a result of the Covid-19 crisis. But the spirit of togetherness that is so integral to this celebration will be alive in the hearts and homes of all Muslims and their families and I know that there will be bountiful ways sought to preserve that sense of unity and make this year a particularly special event.

Historically, this blessed month is an opportunity for families to come together. Indeed, many families travel long distances to rejoice with one another. With mosques closed and large gatherings of people prohibited, traditional celebrations will not be possible this year and Eid may have to be celebrated in the home with immediate family members.

However, there is some comfort in the way technology is allowing people to bridge the distance and protect those sacred moments as well as reach out to Muslims all over the world.

The lockdown restrictions also offer unprecedented quietness and time for self-reflection. Life has slowed down and the daily pressures have eased, giving us all time to examine our lives and ponder on what is important. This period presents an opportunity to study, understand and absorb spiritual guidance on a deeper level. The teachings of Ramadan are more pertinent than ever and will bring hope and comfort to many amidst these turbulent times.

Let us have faith that we will overcome this virus. Let us be charitable as we help others who are suffering from illness, from isolation, from financial problems resulting from the restrictions. Let us pray for those affected directly by this terrible virus.

Once again, we wish you happy Ramadan and Eid Mubarak and please stay safe.

RAMADHAN REFLECTION

★ A Time for Gratitude ★

The Qur'an tells us that fasting in Ramadhan is a way to gain Taqwa (God-consciousness) and learn self-restraint. Fasting is also one of the most powerful ways in which The Almighty teaches us empathy and appreciation. As we grapple with hunger and thirst between sunrise and sunset, we are reminded of those regularly go without food and drink and don't know where their next meal will come from, which then prompts us to express our Gratitude to God.

Bigger tests... This year, that lesson will be more powerful than ever, because the coronavirus pandemic has taken away or made more difficult many of the things we take for granted. With the country in lockdown, the masaajid have been closed, it has been harder to get food from the shops, incomes have been reduced or lost, and people have been separated from their family, friends, and community.

For most of us this has been a real shock to the system. It boggles our minds to think that there might not be any congregational Taraweeh, that we might have to miss out on some of our favourite foods for Iftar, that giving a plate of food to our neighbours could make someone ill, or we might not get to visit family on Eid day,

More to be grateful for... But for many of our brothers and sisters around the world, this is their daily reality. Poverty, food insecurity, widespread illness and poor life chances, being prevented from worshipping together (or indeed expressing any form of a Muslim identity), and even being at risk from their neighbours - these issues were not brought on for them by the coronavirus, nor will they end when the virus fades away.

So as we go through this month, let us be extra sure to count our blessings and express our gratitude to Our Provider. Sometimes, it is only when something taken away from us that we learn its true value. So think of all we have lost due to this pandemic - the safety, security, stability, and bounty in our lives - and give thanks, give thanks, give thanks!

RAMADHAN REFLECTION

★ A time for Staying Safe ★

The Covid-19 lockdown has been hard on people from all walks of life, but for the people of faith for whom gathering to worship their Creator is an embedded part of their routine, it has felt especially challenging. The Muslim community has found it heart-wrenching to think that the masaajid are lying empty, and some worshippers have worried that they are wrong to miss congregational prayers because of the social distancing rules.

Prophetic Guidance

So it might give some comfort to know that the practice of isolation to stop the spread of an illness is advised in Islam. Our beloved Prophet Muhammed, peace be upon him, said, 'If you hear of an outbreak of plague in a land, do not enter it; but if the plague outbreaks in a place while you are in it, do not leave that place'. The Prophet, pbuh, also said, 'Do not mix the sick with the healthy'.

From this it is clear that the practices of social distancing and lockdown are not just Islamically recognised and advised, but they are imperatives for Muslims. And what the Prophet, pbuh, said over fourteen hundred years ago is in line with what the government is telling us to do now, so following the lockdown and social distancing rules means we are actually following his guidance.

Great Reward

Further, the Prophet, pbuh, said, 'If a person in the time of an epidemic plague stays in their home patiently hoping for God's Reward, and believing that nothing will afflict them except what God has written for them, they will get the reward of a martyr'. Not only does that mean, God Willing, that there will be no punishment for missing congregational prayer; it also means that because we are doing what is necessary to keep ourselves and others safe, we will actually receive a great reward.

RAMADHAN REFLECTION

★ Patience and Prayer ★

Ramadhan is not simply the month of fasting; it is a time of heightened worship in all its forms. Acts of charity tend to increase significantly in Ramadhan, and so do acts of prayer. Ramadhan can also be a challenging month, one during which we have to up our capacity for patience. The current lockdown has already been a very testing time for everybody, and it looks set to continue well into Ramadhan, if not beyond. Therefore, more so in this Ramadhan than any other, an increase in patience will have to go hand-in-hand with the increase in prayer.

The paths of prayer...

Sabr, patience, is spoken of repeatedly in the Qur'an and Hadeeth, often in conjunction with prayer. The Almighty tells us, 'O you who have believed, seek help through patience and prayer; indeed, God is with the patient' (2:153). As an umbrella term, 'prayer' covers more than the prescribed five daily Salaat. It includes the special Ramadhan salaat Taraweeh (nightly prayer where the entire Qur'an is recited over the course of the month), as well as the year-round Tahajjud (late night/pre-dawn prayer) and nafl (optional) salaat. Prayer also include dhikr (remembrance of God), du'aa (supplication), tawbah and istighfar (repentance and seeking forgiveness), and taqwa (God-consciousness in all you do).

...lead to patience and peace

Each of these forms of prayer can be a gateway to greater patience: comfort can be found in yielding to the ritual and routine of Salaat; feelings of anxiety, fear, and loss of control can be soothed by stating our trust in His Plan for us; and scales can be rebalanced and fresh starts initiated by unburdening our souls in the hope of forgiveness. Patience, in turn, will be a gateway to peace; the Qur'an says, 'Verily, in the remembrance of God do hearts find rest' (13:28). So remember The Almighty, turn to prayer, and be patient - and God Willing, despite this challenging time, your Ramadhan will be filled with peace.

Ramadhan Mubarak to you and your family.

RAMADHAN REFLECTION

★ A time for Giving and Receiving ★

Charity is practiced throughout the year but gains greater significance in Ramadhan when the reward are multiplied. And with the huge impact that the pandemic has had on people's lives and livelihoods, charity has taken on a greater importance than ever in recent weeks.

Giving... Praise God, we live in an affluent country where, generally speaking, our lives are safe, convenient, and financially comfortable. Our purse strings might tighten from time to time but, overall, we manage. Unfortunately, this is not the case for everyone: not being able to make ends meet, and even outright poverty, was already the reality for far too many people in the U.K. before the pandemic, and Covid-19 has seen many more people's financial security disappear overnight. This has left many people in need locally, so as you make plans for how you are going to donate your Zakaat and Sadaqah this Ramadhan, please keep in mind all those struggling closer to home as well as our brothers and sisters in need overseas. Please visit www.leicestercommunity.co.uk for details of local organisations that will be grateful for your help - be that in the form of money, food and other essentials, or volunteering - both during and long after the pandemic and Ramadhan.

... and Receiving... Many people are finding themselves struggling at the present time with everything from paying bills to putting food on the table, and from the impact of isolation on their mental health to difficulties in family relationships. Although the lockdown means that the community cannot be together, please remember that you are not alone. Please visit the Leicester Community Response website at www.leicestercommunity.co.uk for details of organisations that can help support you through this crisis, whatever your need.

RAMADHAN REFLECTION

★ A time for being responsible ★

The Qur'an and Sunnah teach Muslims to be practical, sensible, and responsible in all that we do. These qualities become even more essential in dark and challenging times, as with the present situation. Below are some key considerations for navigating this crisis in a responsible way.

Follow Safety Advice

As noted, there is great emphasis placed in Islam on behaving in a way that keep ourselves and others safe from harm. Therefore, as well as following the social distancing rules, take the other recommended safety measures to minimise your risk of catching or spreading the disease when out and about.

Beware Fake News!

We all want to keep each other in the know during this alarming and fast-developing situation but we must take care when doing so, otherwise we risk spreading misinformation faster than the virus itself. We are told in the Qur'an, 'O believers, if an iniquitous person brings you any news, verify it so you do not harm people unknowingly, becoming regretful for what you have done' (49:6). The people we get information from tend to be good rather than iniquitous, but the same lesson applies - check all information you receive, and if you can't be sure that it is factual and correct then please don't share it with others, as it might do more harm than good.
